ENOS HOWARD AND MARTHA SOULE

WE KNOW THE UPRIGHT LIVES THEY LED,
WHICH LEND TO AGE AN ADDED CHARM;
WE KNOW THEY TOILED TO WIN THEIR BREAD,
ON LANDS THEY CLEARED AND CALLED "A FARM."

YET, BETTER STILL, IT IS TO KNOW
THEY BLEST THE WORLD, BOTH NOW AND THEN;
SINCE IN THE YEARS OF LONG AGO
THEY LEFT EARTH BETTER OFF FOR MEN.

OUR ENOS HOWARD AND MARTHA SOULE,
'T WOULD SEEM, WERE QUITE UNKNOWN TO FAME;
AND YET THEY WERE, FOR YOU AND ME
ANCESTORS WORTHY OF THE NAME.

INTRODUCTION

(BETTER READ IT)

SOME TIME SINCE, I WAS ASKED TO BECOME A MEMBER OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION. AS MY UNCLE, DR. DANIEL SCHUYLER YOUNG, HAD COLLECTED YOUNG FAMILY RECORDS OVER A PERIOD OF SEVERAL YEARS PRIOR TO HIS DEATH, (PUBLISHED BY JOHN J. VAN DER VEER, AMSTERDAM, N. Y., 1912) I FOUND LITTLE DIFFICULTY IN QUALIFYING. THIS EXPERIENCE AROUSED INTEREST IN MY MOTHER'S FAMILY. SHE HAD COLLECTED CONSIDERABLE DATA DURING THE LATTER YEARS OF HER LIFE, AND THESE FORMED THE INITIAL BASIS FOR THIS COMPIATION.

AS SOON AS CORRESPONDENCE STARTED, IT WAS DISCOVERED THAT SEVERAL OTHER MEMBERS OF THE FAMILY HAD LIKEWISE BEEN ENGAGED IN ASSEMBLING FAMILY RECORDS, AND THESE HAVE BEEN PLACED AT MY DISPOSAL WITH UNSTINTING GENEROSITY.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT AND THANKS ARE EXTENDED TO ALL THOSE RELATIVES WHO HAVE GIVEN OF THEIR TIME, AND HAVE LOANED THEIR PRIZED PHOTOGRAPHS AND RECORDS TO MAKE THIS WORK POSSIBLE. IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE TO MENTION THEM ALL BY NAME, BUT ESPECIAL CONSIDERATION SHOULD BE GIVEN TO EDNA AVERY JONES BILLINGS, NELLIE BARKER McNEIL, AND CLARENCE FOOTE FOR THEIR EXCEPTIONAL GENEROSITY OF TIME AND EFFORT. AND MY THANKS ARE ALSO EXTENDED TO MY BELOVED WIFE, ETHEL BURTON RICH YOUNG, FOR HER HELP, SYMPATHY, AND FORBEARANCE DURING THIS AGONY OF AUTHORSHIP.

UNFORTUNATELY, THIS WORK IS FAR FROM COMPLETE, FOR VARIOUS BRANCHES OF THE FAMILY HAVE BECOME WIDELY SCATTERED AND IT HAS NOT ALWAYS BEEN POSSIBLE TO FIND INDIVIDUALS WHO HAVE THE INCLINATION AND INFORMATION TO HELP COMPLETE THE RECORDS. EVERY EFFORT HAS BEEN MADE TO PRESENT ACCURATE AND DEPENDABLE DATA, AND UNSUPPORTED FAMILY TRADITION HAS BEEN OMITTED, UNLESS PLAINLY LABELED AS SUCH. WHERE DISCREPANCIES IN DATES HAVE OCCURRED, ONE WHICH SHOWS BEST EVIDENCE OF BEING CORRECT HAS BEEN ADOPTED. BIBLE RECORDS, TOMBSTONE INSCRIPTIONS AND EARLIER WRITINGS HAVE ALL BEEN UTILIZED.

WHILE THIS IS PRIMARILY A HISTORY OF ENOS HOWARD AND HIS DESCENDANTS, MUCH VALUABLE INFORMATION HAS BEEN SECURED ABOUT OTHER FAMILIES, MEMBERS OF WHICH HAVE INTER-MARRIED WITH THE HOWARDS. THIS HAS BEEN INCLUDED, AS OTHERWISE IT MIGHT BE LOST, AND IT IS HOPED THAT IT MAY PROVE INTERESTING TO FUTURE GENERATIONS.

COLONIAL RECORDS AND REVOLUTIONARY WAR RECORDS HAVE BEEN INCLUDED WHERE ASCERTAINABLE. THOSE INTERESTED IN PATRIOTIC SOCIETIES WILL FIND HERE RECORDS TO SUPPORT THEIR APPLICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP IN THE SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS AND THE SOCIETY OF THE COLONIAL DAMES OF AMERICA THROUGH MRS. ENOS HOWARD'S (MARTHA SOULE) ANCESTRY, AND IN THE SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION THROUGH JOSEPH FOOTE, EBENEZER SOULE (MARTHA SOULE'S GRANDFATHER AND FATHER) AND ENOS HOWARD HIMSELF.

EACH FAMILY HISTORY IS ARRANGED WITH THE DIRECT DESCENDANT (MAN OR WOMAN, MENTIONED FIRST, WITH HIS OR HER LINE OF DESCENT IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE NAME, INDIVIDUALS MARRYING INTO THE FAMILY ARE NOTED NEXT WITH INFORMATION REGARDING PARENTAGE TO PERMIT INTEGRATION WITH THEIR GENEALOGIES, WHEN FOUND DESIRABLE. THEIR FAMILY HISTORIES AND ANCESTRY ARE INCLUDED WITH THE FIRST MENTION OF A MEMBER OF THEIR FAMILY.

THESE NOTES APPEARED ORIGINALLY AS A CONTRIBUTION TO THE NIAGARA FRONTIER GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY MAGAZINE DURING THE YEARS 1945 AND 1946. GRATEFUL ACKNOWLEDGMENT IS MADE TO THIS SOCIETY FOR PERMISSION TO ASSEMBLE THE NOTES IN THIS FORM.

THIS WORK HAS BEEN PURSUED AS A MATTER OF PLEASURE AND INFORMATION TO THE AUTHOR. IT HAS BEEN SAID THAT ANY INVESTIGATION OF ANCESTRY, IF CARRIED FAR ENOUGH, DISCLOSES BLACK SHEEP WHOSE IDENTITIES MIGHT BETTER HAVE REMAINED UNDISCOVERED. SO FAR NONE HAS BEEN UNCOVERED. OUR PEOPLE HAVE LEFT US A SPLENDID HERITAGE, ONE OF WHICH WE ALL MAY BE PROUD. IT IS HOPED THAT YOU MAY HAVE AS MUCH PLEASURE STUDYING THIS WORK AS THE AUTHOR HAS HAD IN COMPILING IT.

HENRY CLAY YOUNG, JR.

by Henry Clay Young

On page 729 of the second volume of "Soule, Sowle and Soulis History" by G. T. Ridlou, Sr., appears the following:

"1. Martha B. Soule (1), eldest daughter of Ebenezer (1) and Mercy (Foote) Soule, born in Hillsdale, N.Y. Aug. 15, 1770 was married to Enos Howard and had several children whose names were not supplied."

During the past several years this writer has been engaged in collecting information about this family and has several notebooks of material. There has been recorded the descent and connections of several hundred individuals.

Nothing so far has been found of the antecedents of Enos Howard. The available information about him has come from his application for a Revolutionary War Pension and from his will. Even his birthplace is unknown.

He was born July 5, 1760 and enlisted in the militia from Hillsdale, N.Y. for various terms of service during the Revolutionary War. He was present at both battles of Saratoga, resulting in the surrender of General Burgoyne.

In August or September, 1780, he enlisted under Captain Miller and, in the language of his pension application, "immediately marched to West Point, that he was at West Point at the time Gen. Arnold was negotiating to surrender of that part to the enemy, that he with a man by the name of Raively was selected was selected from his company to form a detachment to take some prisoners to the interior of Pennsylvania, that he thinks this detachment was formed by selecting about two soldiers from each company, that this selection was made, the detachment formed and the march commenced on the same day, that they started with their prisoners as he believes about two days before the discovery of Arnold's treachery, that he went with the prisoners to Lancaster, Pa., and returned immediately to West Point, that on his return he learned that his company had been ordered to the north and he proceeded on to Albany after them, that he was detained at Albany several days, waiting until some military stores were prepared.

"That in pursuance of orders he assisted in transportating of several loads of military stores to Schoharie, where he finally joined his company, that soon after his arrival at the Fort in Schoharie, the fort was attacked by the British and Indians under Governor Johnston, the United States forces were under command of Col. Woolsey, that he well recollects, that many of the troops expressed strong doubts in regard to the courage of Maj. Woolsey, and were fearful in case a flag of truce was waived, that the fort would be surrendered, and that some of the Pennsylvania riflemen fired at the flag which the enemy twice attempted to send to the fort - that after a sharp attack on the fort, the enemy retreated in the direction of the Mohawk River, that he with the troops of the fort, pursued the enemy to Canajoharie, fort plain, and followed them from thence about twenty miles into the woods beyond the settlements on the German Flats, that many of the enemy were killed in the pursuit, and among the killed was the Celebrated Col. Butler - that after this pursuit the troops returned down the Mohawk to Albany, when this deponent was discharged and returned home, that he was engaged in this last service about three months."

A map of Sir John Johnson's raid of October 1780 may be found in the 1897 edition of "New York in the Revolution" as arranged by James A. Roberts, Comptroller, this map facing page xviii. The farm upon which Enos Howard later established his family is about two miles north east of Esperance as shown on this map and very close to the line of march which he must have taken on his way from Albany to Schoharie. It is interesting to speculate that he first saw this country during his service in this campaign.

In 1783 he was married to Martha B. Soule at Hillsdale, N.Y., the ceremony being performed by Rev. Jepe Clark, pastor of the Spencertown Presbyterian Church. Martha B. Soule's descent from George Soule, "Mayflower" Pilgrim, may readily be traced through Mr. Ridgou's book. Briefly, it is as follows:

George (1) Soule, b. _____, d. 1680 and Mary Becket, b. _____ d. 1677. George (2) Soule, b. abt. 1624, d. ante 1704 (date of probate of will) and Deborah _____, b. _____, d. ante Mar. 1, 1709 (date of probate of will). William (3) Soule, b. as early as 1670, d. _____ and Hannah Brewster, b. _____, d. _____. George (4) Soule, b. Oct. 5, 1695, d. 1784 and Lydia Howland, b. Aug. 10, 1701, d. 1719. Benjamin (5) Soule, b. Aug. 12, 1728, d. _____ and Abigail Howland, b. _____, d. _____. Ebenezer (6) Soule, b. May 14, 1750, d. July 9, 1812 and Mercy Foote, b. _____, d. Dec. 14, 1805 in her 57th year (dau. of Joseph Foote and Zeruah _____). Martha B. (7) Soule, b. Aug. 15, 1770, d. Nov. 11, 1854.

The Mayflower Index, by William Alexander McAusland, Historian General for the General Society of Mayflower Descendants, lists the Soules as follows:

p. 684 George Soule of the Mayflower	#31852
p. 683 Ebenezer Soule m. Mercy Foote	#31820

The house of Ebenezer Soule is still standing about one and one-half miles south of Spencertown, N.Y., with the date 1783 on the chimney. It is in a very sightly location on Pursuit Creek.

Revolutionary War Record of Ebenezer Sole (Soule)

Ebenezer Sole enlisted as private in the 9th regiment of Albany County Militia commanded by Colonel Peter Van Ness.

(New York in the Revolution as Colony and State, v. 1, p. 117.)

Ebenezer Sole listed as assigne and Ebenezer Soule listed as assignor in connection with land bounty rights.

(New York in the Revolution as Colony and State, v. 2, pp. 206, 210.)

Ebenezer Soule signed the Articles of Association in Dutchess County, June, 1775.

Revolutionary War Record of Joseph Foot (Foote)

Joseph Foot enlisted as a private in the 2nd regiment of New York Line, commanded by Colonel Phillip Van Courtland.

(New York in the Revolution as Colony and State, v. 1, p. 32.)

Joseph Foot appears on a list of those who voluntarily enlisted in the Provincial Service at the beginning of the War. Return dated June 5, 1775. Joseph Foot afterward served in the Second Line.

(New York in the Revolution as Colony and State, v. 1, p. 12.)

(Edna L. Jacobsen, Head Misc. and Hist. Section, New York State Library, Albany, N.Y., Aug. 16, 1933)

Ebenezer Soule was Justice of the Peace from 1795 to 1808 and Supervisor from 1808 to 1811. He died Jan. 9, 1812 and his wife, Mercy, December 14, 1805, both being buried at Spencertown, New York.

His will is dated March 13, 1811 and was probated February 6, 1812. Mentions wife Abigail (probably 2nd wife, whose former husband was Daniel Lord, deceased); son Isaac Soule; ----- Soule, son of Howland Soule; daughters Martha, Rachel, Charlotte, Mary, Rebecca, Elizabeth, Margaret; sons Benjamin, Stephen, Ebenezer. Executors: Benjamin Soule, Ebenezer Soule, Jr. Witnesses: Thomas Wilts of Hillsdale, William Maston, Sally Maston.

Ebenezer Soule and Mercy Foote were the parents of twelve children, five sons and seven daughters. Their oldest child, Martha B., became the wife of Enos Howard and the ancestress of our line.

Enos and Martha lived in Hillsdale until after the birth of their third child, Aug. 15, 1789, when they moved about 85 miles west to the town of Duaneburg and settled on a farm near the village of Esperance, New York. This farm is now, 1944, owned by a descendant, never having passed from the possession of the family. The sketch "Pioneer Life and Customs in New York State," Niagara Frontier Genealogical Magazine, Vol. III, p. 230, was prepared to picture the experiences of such a young couple in hewing a home from the wilderness in the late 18th century. It is probably a fairly accurate picture of the life of Enos and Martha.

1. Howard, Enos (founder of our line) b. July 5, 1760; m. 1783 to Martha Soule, d. May 15, 1844. Martha was daughter of Ebenezer Soule and Mercy Foote, and was b. August 15, 1770 in Hillsdale, New York, d. November 11, 1854. Both d. in Duaneburg, New York, and are buried in the Howard family cemetery on the farm which they cleared from the wilderness, and which has been in possession of the family since (1944)

Occupation: Farmer

Religion: Baptist

12. Rachel (2), b. Oct. 12, 1808, m. 1st to Allen Gardner, m. 2nd in the Spring, 1863, to James Brittan.

As stated before, diligent search has so far failed to reveal the parentage, place of birth or other particulars regarding the antecedents of Enos Howard. If any reader should discover such information, the author will greatly appreciate hearing about it.

Author's Note: This letter places the location of those named as being close enough to the old Homestead to be present at that wedding. All the children of Enos Howard had undoubtedly been married at that time. Moses and Martha Miller, however, were not married until 1831, so either Mrs. Davidson was mistaken as to their presence as witnesses, or else they were present as friends, and not as a married pair.

Nothing now is known of the occupation of either Mr. Shannon, or of Mr. Davidson. Charlotte Davidson, dau. of James and Sarah (Howard) Davidson, d. in 1844 at Berne, N.Y., and is buried there. Berne is in N.E. Duaneburg, and so it seems probable that the family lived there at least until that time. There is evidence, however, that Mrs. Davidson was living with her son-in-law at the time Mr. Davidson died.

Child of James and Sarah (Howard-Shannon) Davidson:

Charlotte³, b. Feb. 1827, d. Aug. 29, 1844 at Berne, N.Y., unm., and buried there.

13. Shannon, Martha³ (Sarah², Enos¹); b. Sept. 30, 1808 at Duaneburg, NY, d. Sept. 7, 1873 at East Carlton, N.Y., buried at Kent Cemetery, Kent, Orleans Co., N.Y., m. Sept. 29, 1831 at Duaneburg, N.Y. to Rev. Moses Miller, who was b. Sept. 18, 1806 at Schoharie, N.Y., d. Jan. 8, 1886 at East Carlton, N.Y., buried at Kent Cemetery. He was the sixth child of Zepheniah Miller, who was b. Feb. 16, 1769, d. Feb. 28, 1850, m. May 29, 1791 to Lucy Gregory, who was b. Sept. 25, 1771, d. Apr. 28, 1837. Zepheniah Miller was the third child of Silas Miller and Martha Haines, who lived in Bedford, Westchester Co., N.Y.

Moses Miller removed to Berne, N.Y. before his marriage and lived there until 1848 on land belonging to the Van Rensselaer estate. Much of the land in the vicinity belonged to the estates of the original Dutch and English holders, and could be rented out on long leases, but could not be sold. There is a small church at Berne, near enough so that the family walked to its services.

Occasional trips were made to Albany, twenty-six miles away, for such trading as could not be done at the country store.

Converted at the age of 19, Mr. Miller joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was licensed to preach some two or three years after. In 1841 he was ordained a local preacher by Bishop Soule. His family relatives were nearly all Methodists, and one brother filled the same office in church as himself.

In 1848 he came with his family to the Town of Carlton, Orleans Co. They came on one of the "line boats" on the Erie Canal to Hulburton, bringing with them a horse, wagon, two seated carriage, a few tools, and household goods.

The "line boats" carried both freight and passengers, and had stations along the canal where horses were changed, or put in to feed and rest. The "packet boats" travelled faster but only carried light freight with passengers. The trip had some delay on account of breaks in the canal, though none occurred on the levels on which they were.

They arrived in Carlton about the middle of May, and found that a neighbor, William Stebbins, who had come in 1836, had plowed the garden and planted potatoes for them.

The farm was bought of James Armstrong, and the family lived in a log house until the house now standing there was built. The kitchen now on the house was attached to the log house at that time. Mrs. Miller lived on the farm until his death. Sarah M. Miller, who made her home with her father, spent the rest of her life with her sister, Mrs. George C. Stebbins, in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Charles W. Miller enlisted Jan. 4, 1864 as a private in Company 1, 14th Heavy Artillery. He was discharged Aug. 10, 1865, and died of sickness contracted in the army, having been in the hospital for some time before his discharge.

Mar. 27, 1888. At time of writing, only George C. and Charlotte Ella are living, both at Catskill, N.Y. in Mrs. Miller's home. Charlotte Ella married Roscoe D. Miller in 1872. He died in March, 1917. They had one child, Clark W., who was born in 1872, and died in 1899.

George C. Stebbins at an early age developed an interest in music through a singing school held in the country school house opposite his farm home. A few years later a piano was bought for a sister who did not live long to enjoy it, and this piano was the first one touched by Mr. Stebbins. It became a keen delight to him and today, nearly eight years later, is in his sister's home in Catskill, N.Y.

In his twenty-fourth year he married Elma Miller, a daughter of Rev. Moses Miller, a licensed Methodist Episcopal local preacher residing in the neighborhood, and in his evangelistic work throughout the years, she was his constant companion, travelling with him, singing duets with him, and entering into all the varied activities of his career. In his book, "Reminiscences and Gospel Hymn Stories" (no longer in print), he says of her:

"In these pages occasional mention has been made of Mrs. Stebbins, and I desire to offer a grateful tribute to her memory by declaring that no account of my public activities would be complete without placing to her credit much of the good that may have been accomplished.

"Endowed with rare intuition and judgment, with grace of mind and heart, a winsome personality, and with a voice that was full, sympathetic and pleasing in quality, all of which she dedicated to the cause to which our lives had been devoted, her ministries to her friends - and above all to her family and home, - are beyond words of mine to appraise.

"I desire also to acknowledge my indebtedness to her for a life of nearly half a century of singular happiness and helpfulness in every situation and circumstance during those years.

"Elma Miller - for that was the name by which she was known in her earlier years - was one of the fairest among her associates; and it was prophesied by those who knew her that she would be a blessing wherever her lot might be cast. The prophecies were abundantly fulfilled, for she left a trail of blessing wherever she went, in her own land and beyond the seas."

In the fall of the year 1869, Mr. Stebbins removed to Chicago, and in the autumn following became the director of music in the First Baptist Church. During his residence in Chicago he met D. L. Moody and Ira D. Sankey, who later became the world's great Evangelists.

In the summer of 1876 while spending a few days with Mr. Moody at his home in Northfield, Mass., Mr. Moody proposed that he should join him in his evangelistic movements, which Mr. Stebbins decided to do. The association with Messrs. Moody and Sankey that began at that time continued until Mr. Moody's death twenty-three years later.

Mr. Stebbins' first work in this new connection was to organize a choir to assist Messrs. Moody and Sankey in their three months' evangelistic campaign in Chicago, beginning October first, 1876. Then followed a succession of evangelistic activities at home and abroad - leading song services, writing hymns and editing hymn books. The most famous of these was known as "Gospel Hymns," which Mr. Stebbins, with Messrs. Sankey and James McGranahan, edited. It was issued in successive numbers and was used by Mr. Moody during the last twenty-three years of his life. In that time over sixty million copies were sold.

Some of the best known hymns for which Mr. Stebbins wrote the music were: "Evening Prayer," "The Green Hill," "I've Found a Friend," "True Hearted," "Jesus is Calling," "Take Time to be Holy," "Have Thine Own Way, Lord," and "Saved by Grace." During the course of his long and beloved life, Mr. Stebbins has set over thirteen hundred hymns to music, and nearly every church hymnal and Sunday School song book in use today contains several of his compositions. And at the age of 93 he is still composing!

In the United States he worked from coast to coast, from Boston to San Francisco. He was also part of several Evangelistic groups holding services in England and Scotland. On his world tour in 1890 he and Mrs. Stebbins conducted song services in India, Egypt, The Holy Land, Naples, Rome, Florence, Paris, and London.

In 1880 Mr. Moody founded the "Northfield Bible Conference," which in time became world-wide in its influence. Mr. Stebbins and Mr. Sankey conducted its song services from the beginning until the death of the latter in 1908, when Mr. Stebbins assumed the direction alone until his retirement, after thirty-five years of activity. During these years he was associated with those famous personalities engaged in evangelistic work, Messrs. Moody and Sankey, and their associates, Fanny Crosby, Henry Drummond, E. O. Excell, C. M. Alexander, C. H. Gabriel, James McGranahan, Rev. G. F. Pentacost, P. P. Bliss, Maj. D. W. Whittle, and others.

Messrs. Moody and Sankey arranged for an all winter evangelistic campaign in San Francisco and Oakland in 1880-81, and as Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins were disengaged at that time, Mr. Moody asked them to join him in that work. As Mrs. Stebbins had had considerable experience in conducting ladies' meetings in previous campaigns, she was asked to assume that activity among young women in Oakland, across the Bay. As the influence of Moody's and Sankey's meetings increased, interest in these women's meetings also increased, until it became necessary to include all women, without distinction as to age.

Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins sang every day with Mr. Sankey in San Francisco, and this brought them into prominence. Soon it became necessary to organize similar meetings for women in San Francisco. As the interest in the great evangelistic meetings grew deeper and deeper, these women's meetings became an important feature, to such an extent that the attendance reached one thousand ladies at times.

Their evening work was with an evangelist associated with Mr. Moody, and for the most part were held in Oakland. Mr. Stebbins led the singing, assisted by Mrs. Stebbins in the rendition of special hymns.

At the close of the winter, Dr. Geo. F. Pentacost, pastor of the Tompkins Ave. Congregational Church in Brooklyn, N.Y., arranged with Mr. Moody to have Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins assist him in the work of that Church. They had been associated with Dr. Pentacost in evangelistic work for four years prior to his becoming pastor in 1880. Mr. Stebbins assumed the position of director of music.

The Tompkins Avenue Church had a Sunday School of 1500, so large that the Sunday School rooms could not take care of the whole attendance. The older school was held in the auditorium, and the intermediate and primary departments in a separate room. Mrs. Stebbins was made superintendent of those departments, consisting of about 500 pupils, taught by about fifty teachers. At the close of each session, she gave a brief talk, emphasizing the central thought of the lesson.

She carried on this activity for about five years, until the strain began to affect her health. During this time, she was also very helpful in carrying on the general work of the church, and was especially interested in the missionary society, of which she was president at the time of her death.

Through all these years Mrs. Stebbins was constantly at the side of her husband. Their home in Brooklyn and their small son were cared for by Mrs. Stebbins' sister, Miss Sarah Miller, when they were away on their evangelistic activities.

During the latter part of August, 1915, Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins were stopping at the Northfield Hotel in Northfield, Mass. On the evening of the thirty-first, a group, of which Mrs. Stebbins was one, was singing hymns in the hotel parlor. One of the hymns they sang was "Saved by Grace," the beautiful words of which were written by Fanny Crosby, "Some day the silver chord will break, And I no more as now shall sing." At midnight that night the silver chord was broken, and the beautiful voice was stilled, leaving memories that will long live.

Many of these experiences are vividly told in Mr. Stebbins' book, "Reminiscences and Gospel Hymn Stories," now unfortunately out of print, from which much of this information is gleaned.

This author and his wife had the pleasure of a gracious interview with him in November, 1938, and found him then, approaching his 93rd birthday, in good health and full of that boundless enthusiasm which has carried him through nearly a half century of service for his Master. Surely our family may be full of humble gratitude for its privilege of calling him "Cousin."

CHAPTER 3

The fifth child of Enos Howard was Benjamin Squire, who became a preacher and circuit rider in the Baptist Church. There have been a goodly number of professional men in this branch, which is a large one.

We know that Enos Howard and his family were deeply religious. Martha Soule Howard came from a Quaker ancestry, her great grandparents having been granted a certificate of removal from Dartmouth, Mass., to the earliest mention of a meeting of the Society of Friends in Dutchess County, N.Y., this certificate being dated Jan. 1, 1742. This same great grandmother, Lydia Howland Soule, was a Quakeress Preacher in her own right. There is still in existence a five-volume Scott's Bible Commentary, printed in 1812, which belonged to Enos Howard, and which shows evidence of hard usage. So it is not at all strange that one of Enos' and Martha's sons should enter the ministry.

About the only clue we have of Rev. Benjamin Squire Howard's activities lies in the birthplaces of his eleven children, almost no two of whom were born in the same place. He found his wife in Reading, Pa., and from 1811 to 1837 his children were born in various places in Schoharie, Schenectady, Herkimer, Otsego, Montgomery, and Monroe Counties, N.Y. He died in Reading, Pa., in 1863.

6. Howard, Rev. Benjamin Squire (Enos 1), b. Aug. 7, 1793 Duanesburg, NY, d. Aug. 5, 1863 Reading, Pa., m. Mar. 31, 1810 Sarah Moore, b. Mar. 13, 1792 Lebanon, NY, d. Feb. 19, 1863 Sivver Lake, McHenry Co., Ill. Occupation, preacher, circuit rider. Religion, Baptist. Children:

Occupation, Iron founder, patentor of self oiling car wheel. Religion, Methodist. Orson Watson Barker lived all his life after his marriage at Braidwood, Ill., where he conducted an Iron Foundry. He was the inventor and patentor of several devices, one of which was a "Self Oiling Car Wheel" which was widely used. He played an important part in the building of the Methodist Church in Braidwood and was prominent in its affairs for many years.

He was a kind and loving father and husband, a man of high integrity, and well respected in his community. He was a good singer and a great lover of sacred music. His children cherish fond memories of his singing "The Ninety and Nine" and "Look on the Bright Side." They often coaxed him to sing these, sometimes when they wanted to delay the bed-time hour.

Nellie Barker McNeil graduated from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., in June 1892, and taught school for four years in Braidwood and Forrest, Ill. After her marriage, she went to Amsterdam, N.Y., where Mr. and Mrs. McNeil have made their home since 1896. In 1900 Mr. McNeil joined Welcome Lodge, F.&A.M. of which he later became Worshipful Master. He was afterward chosen Grand Sword Bearer of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York. He is still an active worker in Masonic bodies. In 1907 Mrs. McNeil became a member of Art Wel Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, and later became its Worthy Matron. In 1929 Mrs. McNeil was honored by being elected Worthy High Priestess of the Shepherd Shrine at Schenectady, N.Y., a body of over 600 members. In 1925 Mrs. McNeil was taken into the D.A.R. on the William Pattison and Enos Howard lines. For forty years she has been active in the Progressive Bible Class of the First Methodist Church of Amsterdam. She has been active in gathering information for this book, especially for the Benjamin Squire and Samuel lines, and may fairly be called its co-author. The deep thanks of the writer is extended to her.

by Henry Clay Young

CHAPTER 6

Scelenda Howard Branch

Scelenda Howard, the second child of Benjamin Squire Howard, was married in Rochester, New York, while her father was living there, to Olive Barker Bartlett. Their first four children were born at Rochester, and the next four, and possibly all the rest were born at Irondequoit, only a short distance from Rochester. Sometime prior to 1870 the family moved to Lakeville, New York, near Conesus Lake. The home which they occupied at that time is still in existence, being occupied (1940) by Mrs. Stephen B. Bartlett, a daughter-in-law.

Mr. Bartlett was a farmer, and he and Mrs. Bartlett raised a large family, from whom a considerable line of descendants has sprung. This line is fairly complete, but if anyone into whose hands this record may come, knows of any additions, the author will be grateful for their receipt.

Squire Benjamin Howard Branch

Squire Benjamin Howard early learned the art of photography, and took the premium at the Berk's County (Pa.) Fair for sixteen consecutive years. He was a preacher and finally gave up his business and devoted his time exclusively to the ministry. He served charges in the church of God at Highspire, Middletown, Duncannon and Saxton, Pa. He had a keen insight into the Scriptures and was a ready debater. He was a member of the City

Zouaves at Reading, Pa., which was organized near the close of the Civil War, but never saw active service. He married Clara S., youngest daughter of George and Eva (Schenfelder) Nagel who were the parents of sixteen children. She was considered one of the most charming women in Reading. The great great grandfather, Johannes Philip Nagel, the immigrant, was born in Oberwortengen, Germany Nov. 10, 1725, died in Reading, Pa. Dec. 6, 1804. (see Trinity Lutheran Church records, Reading, Pa.) One of his sons, Phillip, fought in the Revolutionary War, 1st Regiment Pennsylvania Continentals, under Col. James Chambers. He fought in the battles of Long Island, Germantown, Brandywine, and Yorktown. He received a pension for his services as private and drum-major. His remains are interred under the chapel of Trinity Lutheran Church, Reading, Pa.

Mr. Howard removed to Orange Co., Fla., in 1883. In 1888 he located permanently in Orlando. He was a photographer and publisher. He edited the Orlando Star, and other papers; was secretary of the Board of Trade, also chairman of School Trustees.

One child, Florida, b. May 24, 1890, at Orlando, resides there 1939, and is a school teacher.

104. Howard, Harry Herbert (Squire Benjamin 3, Benjamin Squire 2, Enos 1) b. May 24, 1859 at Reading, Pa., d. Dec. 29, 1924 at Harrisburg, Pa., m. Sept. 6, 1888 at Middletown, Pa. to Catherine J. Carmany, a dau. of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Carmany of Middletown. Mr. Howard attended school at Pottsville, Pa. until he was eleven years old. The family then removed to Shamokin, where he worked in the anthracite collieries picking slate. While there he witnessed the fighting and many exciting incidents during the Mollie Maguire outbreak. He then went to Harrisburg with his father, further attending school. He then clerked in grocery and provision stores over a period of about twenty years, after which he entered the flour milling business. On April 6, 1905 the John Hoffer Flouring Mill Co. was incorporated in Steelton, Pa., with Mr. Howard as its secretary. In addition to the milling interest, he was treasurer of the Standard Savings and Loan Assoc. of Pennsylvania with head-office at Steelton. Mr. Howard attended the Presbyterian Church at Steelton, and was its treasurer. In politics he was a Republican. Children:

Howard is perhaps the most distinguished member of the family now alive. He has long been a forceful and sincere speaker and reformer along the lines of prohibition, Sabbath observance, peace, civic betterment and kindred subjects. He is a favorite speaker on Chautauqua circuits, where he earned the title "Little Giant of the Platform." At the time of his removal from Rochester to Washington, D.C. in 1937, he was the guest of honor at a dinner where the following engraved testimonial was presented to him - "To Clinton Norman Howard - a testimonial of his Rochester friends who honor him as citizen, champion of righteous causes; staunch foe of evil - he has befriended the unfortunate; orator - with voice and pen he has labored for the public good; peace lover - he has fought war with militant vigor; loved by his friends - respected by his adversaries; Christian - he has served God with fiery zeal." No better estimate of the man can be made than that afforded by the friends and associates of his fifty years' residence in Rochester. He was founder and president of the Prohibition Union of Christian Men, 1890; began as lyceum and Chautauqua lecturer, 1900; Chairman World Peace Commission, 1920-1924, representing forty-one nations; joined in call for World Conference, Washington, D.C., 1925; Chairman National United Comm. for Law Enforcement, 1924-1936, twenty-four national bodies; now Supt. The first of the two papers in this section is by Dr. J. H. J. van der Linde, who discusses the role of the 'feminine' in the development of the 'masculine' in the history of the human mind. He argues that the 'feminine' is not a static concept, but one that evolves over time, and that it is the interaction between the 'feminine' and the 'masculine' that shapes the human mind. The second paper in this section is by Dr. J. H. J. van der Linde, who discusses the role of the 'feminine' in the development of the 'masculine' in the history of the human mind. He argues that the 'feminine' is not a static concept, but one that evolves over time, and that it is the interaction between the 'feminine' and the 'masculine' that shapes the human mind.

The third of the two papers in this section is by Dr. J. H. J. van der Linde, who discusses the role of the 'feminine' in the development of the 'masculine' in the history of the human mind. He argues that the 'feminine' is not a static concept, but one that evolves over time, and that it is the interaction between the 'feminine' and the 'masculine' that shapes the human mind. (74)

The fourth of the two papers in this section is by Dr. J. H. J. van der Linde, who discusses the role of the 'feminine' in the development of the 'masculine' in the history of the human mind. He argues that the 'feminine' is not a static concept, but one that evolves over time, and that it is the interaction between the 'feminine' and the 'masculine' that shapes the human mind. (82)

The fifth of the two papers in this section is by Dr. J. H. J. van der Linde, who discusses the role of the 'feminine' in the development of the 'masculine' in the history of the human mind. MRS. DeFOREST WAS CONFINED TO HER BED FOR NINETEEN YEARS BEFORE HER DEATH WITH ARTHRITIS. ALTHOUGH IN GREAT PAIN, SHE ALWAYS MAINTAINED A CHEERFUL DISPOSITION, AND WAS GREATLY BELOVED. IN HER YOUTH SHE ATTENDED THE TROY CONFERENCE ACADEMY, NOW KNOWN AS GREEN MOUNTAIN COLLEGE, AT POULTNEY, VT. SHE NARROWLY ESCAPED DEATH WHEN THE DORMITORY BURNED IN 1903, AND LACK OF FUNDS TO REPLACE PERSONAL EFFECTS LOST IN THE FIRE PREVENTED FURTHER HIGHER EDUCATION. SHE WAS A MEMBER OF THE IRVING SOCIETY AT T. C. A., AND AFTER WINNING SEVERAL PRIZES ON STORIES WRITTEN FOR THE SCHOOL PAPER, "THE CHRONICLE", SHE WAS ELECTED ASSISTANT EDITOR. SHE HAD ALWAYS LOVED BOOKS AND DRAMATICS, AND WHILE IN HER TEENS WON GOLD AND SILVER MEDALS IN ORATORICAL CONTESTS SPONSORED BY THE W. C. T. U. FOR SEVERAL YEARS SHE WAS PRESIDENT OF THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S C. T. U. SHE WAS A MEMBER OF THE MINAVILLE REFORMED CHURCH, AND BEFORE HER ILLNESS WAS AN ALTO IN THE CHOIR. AS HER PHYSICAL STRENGTH LESSENED, HER SPIRITUAL STRENGTH INCREASED, AND SHE DELIGHTED IN READING AND STUDY OF THE BIBLE. WITHIN THE PAST FEW YEARS SHE CONCEIVED THE IDEA OF WRITING A BOOK BASED ON HER BIBLICAL STUDIES, AND IN SPITE OF HER CRIPPLED CONDITION SHE COMPLETED THE WORK, ENTITLED "ARMAGEDDON", WHICH WAS PUBLISHED. FORTIFIED BY INNER RESOURCES, SHE LIVED A FULL LIFE IN SPITE OF HER DISABILITY. HER MEMORY WILL LONG LIVE WITH HER FAMILY AND FRIENDS, WHO DREW CHEER FROM HER SPLENDID EXAMPLE. CHILDREN, BORN AT MINAVILLE, N. Y.: (184) DOROTHY ELLEN; ROXIE MARIE, B. JAN. 19, 1917, D. AUG. 10, 1933, BURIED AT CHUCTANUNDA CEMETERY; (184.1) LLOYD TREY; (184.2) BARRE VINCENT.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem.

2. In the second part, we consider the case of a single particle. We show that the motion is periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

3. In the third part, we consider the case of two particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

4. In the fourth part, we consider the case of three particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

5. In the fifth part, we consider the case of four particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

6. In the sixth part, we consider the case of five particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

7. In the seventh part, we consider the case of six particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

8. In the eighth part, we consider the case of seven particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

9. In the ninth part, we consider the case of eight particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

10. In the tenth part, we consider the case of nine particles. We show that the motion is also periodic and that the period is independent of the energy.

PIONEER LIFE AND CUSTOMS

by

Henry C. Young

Presented at the April 13 meeting of the Niagara Frontier
Genealogical Society

The westward movement of population from the original Atlantic seaboard settlements is an interesting subject for study. It really started before those original coast settlements, because the urge that motivated the westward movement across the Atlantic was the same that compelled the pioneers to push further and further west until the Pacific stopped their advance. This urge was the desire to own land, impossible for yeomen and farmers in England and on the continent under the land holding systems there prevalent.

In order to satisfy this demand the Pilgrims of New England and the cavaliers of Virginia with other groups, left their homes and fared westward across the Atlantic to establish new homes in the unbroken wilderness, coming in such numbers that the coastal areas were completely and thickly settled.

As tales came back from the earlier west bound pioneers, of richer and more tillable lands, the younger and hardier men went further and further west. These migrations followed several trails from New England, Pennsylvania, Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia, but we are concerned principally with those followed by the New Englanders. It is a startling fact that during the first 150 years of our history, settlement was confined to the New England States and the Hudson Valley of New York State. At the time of the Revolutionary War, there were virtually no settlements west of the German Flats of the Mohawk Valley. At this period there was a greater density of rural population in the settled area than there has been since. This damming up of the westward flow of emigration was due to the fact that the northern and western parts of New York State were in the hands of the numerous and warlike Iroquois confederation of Indians who had been used by the British and Colonists in the wars with the French in Canada. During the Revolution they had cast their lot with the British, and at the close of that war, they were so decimated that they no longer formed a barrier.

Immediately thereafter the westward movement was almost unbelievably swift. In 1790 there were very few settlers in western New York. In 1800 the infiltration was well under way and by 1820 the arable land to the Niagara Frontier was exceedingly well settled.

We must remember that the line of travel was over trails that had been used for many years by the Indians but there were absolutely no roads as we know them today. The earliest Pioneers had to fell trees along these paths to make room for their ox carts and covered wagons. They were able to take with them only the smallest amounts of furniture and utensils. The most important utensil they carried was the ax, for with it they cleared their lands and built their original log cabins.

Fortunately for us, descriptions of these pioneer movements and of the clearing of land and the establishment of new homes have been preserved. Mr. Andrew W. Young was born in 1802 and in 1875 wrote a "History of Chautauqua County, N.Y." He gathered from the early pioneers of that County tales of their experiences in the period from 1804 to 1815, and it is from his descriptions that this paper has largely been taken.

The labors of the pioneer commenced with the opening of a place in the forest for the erection of home. A description of these early domiciles, familiarly known as "Log Cabins," will be interesting to those who have been born and reared in the frame and brick homes of their fathers, and who have never seen and will never see structures of this kind.

In building the log cabin, trees of uniform size were selected, cut into pieces of the desired length, and hauled or carried to the site of the proposed home. When enough logs had been gathered, a "raising bee" was established. At each corner of the house there was a man expert with an ax to saddle and notch the logs. The saddling was done by so hewing the end of the log as to give the upper half the shape of the roof of a building. A notch was then cut into the next log to fit the saddle, and of such depth as to bring the logs together. The usual height was one story. The gable was laid up with logs gradually shortened up to the top or peak, giving the shape of the roof. On the logs which formed these gables were laid stout poles reaching from one gable to the other at suitable distances to hold the covering, which consisted of bark peeled from elm or bass wood trees. The strips of bark were about four feet long and two or three feet wide, and were laid in tier arrangement, each lapping on the preceeding one much as enormous shingles. These strips of bark were kept in place by heavy poles laid across each tier and fastened at the ends. Instead of bark, sometimes "shakes" or split shingles were used. They were laid about two feet to the weather and held down by weight poles.

At one end of the building, a square opening about eight feet in length and five or six feet in height was cut out and in this space a fireplace was erected, using stone laid in clay or mortar. The chimney erected above the fireplace was usually built with split sticks of timber laid up in log cabin style, the chimney being gradually narrowed upward to the top, where its size was about that of an ordinary brick chimney. The inside was plastered with clay or mud and chopped straw. This stick chimney or stick and clay chimney was far from fire-proof. They sometimes caught fire from burning soot or from overheating, and this fire could only be put out by water being thrown up through the inside of the fire place.

A door was cut through one side of the house, and split pieces, sometimes called "door checks," were used for door posts and were pinned to the ends of the logs with wooden pins. For the want of boards to make doors, a blanket was used to close the door entrance until boards could be obtained. The hinges and latch were both made of wood. The latch was raised from the outside by a string passing through the door and fastened to the latch inside. The safety of the family during the night was effected by drawing in the latch string. Floors were made of split slabs, hewed on one side, and were called puncheons. For a window, a hole was cut in one wall large enough to admit a sash of four or six panes of 7' x 9" glass. When glass was not to be had, the hole was sometimes closed with paper pasted over it. Interstices or chinks between the logs were filled with mud or clay. The larger cracks or chinks were partly closed with split pieces of wood before the mortar was applied.

Most of the immigrants came from considerable distances and brought no bedsteads. A substitute was made by boring holes in walls, in a corner of the house, into which the ends of poles were fitted. Three corners of the bedstead were thus fastened to the walls, and it required but a single post at the free corner to support the bed. The space between the side of the house and the two poles were filled by cords upon which were laid straw ticks and feather beds; sometimes cords were made of elm or basswood bark and used until it was possible to obtain rope.

The internal arrangements of these cabins were very interesting. If one entered at meal time, he found the smaller children standing, or sitting around a large chest in which some of the more valuable articles had been brought, and which served as a table. The parents and older children sat at a table made, perhaps, of a wide puncheon plank, partaking of their plain meal cooked by a log-heap fire. In one corner of the room were one or two small shelves on wooden pins. On these shelves was the table ware, consisting of a few teacups and saucers, a few blue edged plates, perhaps standing singly on their edges, with a goodly number of pewter plates leaning against the wall to render the display of table ware more conspicuous. Underneath this cupboard were kept a few pots and a spider, and perhaps a bake kettle. Very few chairs were brought, and the deficiency was supplied with three-legged stools made of puncheon boards. Over the doorway or fireplace hung the indispensable rifle on two wooden hooks nailed to the logs of the cabin. On another part of the wall clothing of cotton and woolen fabrics was hung on wooden pegs driven into the wall.

Log cabins were lighted in the night time in different ways. In the absence of candles and lamps, the light from the fireplace had to serve. A substitute for candles was sometimes made by taking a wooden rod 10 or 12 inches in length, wrapping around it a strip of cotton or linen cloth and covering it with tallow. These "sluts," as they were called, gave light for several nights. Lamps were prepared by dividing a large turnip in the middle, scraping out the inside down to the rind, and then inserting a stick about 3" long in the center so as to stand upright. A strip of linen or cotton cloth was then wrapped around it; and melted lard or tallow was poured in until the turnip rind was full, when the lamp was ready for use. By the light of these and other rudely constructed lamps, the women spun and sewed, and the men did their inside work. But when neither lard or tallow could be obtained, all the light was afforded by the fire in the open fireplace and by this light many skeins of thread were spun, and many yards of linen woven, and many dresses and trousers made.

Life in such houses was attended with serious discomforts. A single room served as kitchen, dining room, sitting room, bedroom, and parlor. In many families there were six, eight, or ten children, who, with their parents, were crowded into one room. In one corner was the bed already described, in which the father and mother slept and under it was kept the trundle bed for the smaller children. At bedtime this trundle bed was drawn out into the room, and the children put to bed. The larger children slept in the attic, which was reached by a notched log ladder in another corner. The loose construction of the roofs often allowed snow to blow into this attic space and many times the children had to track through the snow to and from their beds. In the summer time rain leaked through the bark or "shakes" roof. It is interesting to speculate on how visitors, who came to spend the night, were disposed of. As families increased, additional rooms were often added, constructed in the same manner as the original cabin.

Clearing the Land

The lands chosen by the early pioneers usually were covered with a dense and heavy forest and it required an immense amount of labor to clear the land of timber. The first part of the clearing process was "underbrushing." The bushes and under saplings were cut nearly to the ground and piled in heaps. The trees were then felled, their trunks cut into lengths of from 12 to 15 feet and the brush and small branches were piled into heaps. After the brush heaps had become thoroughly dry, they were burned and with them the old leaves covering the ground, so that the whole field would be burned over, and the resulting ashes assured an abundant crop. The next part of the process was "logging," and this was generally done by means of a logging bee, in which all of the neighbors came together to help. The neighbors brought their hand spikes which were strong poles about six feet in length and flattened at the larger end in order to permit forcing them under or between the logs. The logs were drawn by oxen to piles and burned. With the assistance of the neighbors and their teams, a whole field of several acres would be logged in an afternoon. At these logging bees, as well as at house and barn raisings, there was usually a plentiful supply of whiskey. Most of the men were moderate drinkers; some, however, gave indications of overstepping the bounds of moderation. But there were this early a few "Teetotal Temperance" men who had no faith in the magic power of strong drink as an assistant to manual labor, and had abandoned its use.

Early Farming

The term agriculture would hardly be applied to pioneer farming. The "virgin soil" as has been observed, was ready for the seed when cleared of its timber, since the ashes from their logging bees furnished fertilizer for several crops. The principal instrument for tillage of the soil was for several years the triangular harrow, usually called "drag." This implement consisted principally of two pieces of timber about 5" square, put together in the form of the letter "A." Spike teeth were driven through the timbers to project beneath them, very much in the form of a modern spike tooth drag except that the early spike teeth were nearly double the size of those now used in order to withstand the severe work they had to do. The drag bounded along over stubs and roots and stones, drawn by oxen, often driven by boys.

When the roots had become sufficiently brittle to permit the use of a plow, a home-made implement for this purpose was used; there were no cast iron plows in use, for they had not been invented. This implement was made of wood with a hard wood point projecting into the ground on the general principal of a modern plow, but merely stirring up the earth rather than turning a furrow.

Early harvesting was equally primitive before the decay and removal of stumps permitted the use of the grain cradle. This method of harvesting was also a very laborious operation, a hand sickle being used first, and afterward a cradle.

Grain was usually threshed with a flail and 10 to 20 bushels a day was a good day's work. There were no fanning mills to separate the grain from the chaff, and this was done by use of a riddle (a very coarse sieve) about 30" in diameter and 5" or 6" deep. It was filled with wheat in the chaff. One man held this riddle high and shook it, permitting the chaff and wheat to fall while two other men created a breeze by shaking a sheet or blanket. Three men could clean about 10 bushels of wheat in a day by this method.

Husking of corn was generally done in the field. The ears, when fully ripened, were broken from the stalk, thrown into heaps and then hauled into the barn. They were thrown into long heaps across the barn floor, ready for a "Corn Husking," in which old and young were invited to participate on some evening. There was usually a good turn out in anticipation of a good time. About 9 o'clock a supper, which several of the neighboring women had prepared, was served to all of the huskers. The old folks would then leave and the young ones danced, played games and otherwise amused themselves. One of the customs of the "Corn Husking" was that when any young man discovered an ear of red corn in his husking, he was permitted to give a kiss to any of the girls present, and got one in return.

Early Cooking

The preparation of meals by these early pioneers was accompanied by much labor and many inconveniences. The cooking was all done in front of the great fireplace, the construction of which has already been described. In the brand new cabins, kettles were hung over the fire to a stout pole, sometimes called a "lug pole." This pole was fastened in the sides of the fireplace at such a height as not to catch fire from heat or sparks. The kettles were suspended from "trammels" which were pieces of iron rods with a hook at each end. They were made in various lengths so that the kettle could be brought close to the fire or further away, as necessity dictated. These lug poles were afterward replaced with iron cranes attached to the side of the fireplace and made so that they could swing out into the room, thus providing more convenience and safer methods of handling the various kettles to be heated.

Another important utensil was the long handled frying pan, which was usually held over the fireplace by hand; sometimes to save time, the end of the handle was laid on the back of a chair, the pan resting on the fire, while the cook was "setting the table." The frying pan was also used for baking short cakes. It was placed in a nearly vertical position before the fire, leaning slightly backwards, with the coals under and back of it to bake the under side. A more convenient utensil for this purpose was the cast iron, three-legged, short handled spider which was set over the coals on the fire. Its legs were of such length and so adjusted that when used for baking cakes or bread, it was turned up on one edge towards the fire with the handle upwards, easily keeping its position. Where cast iron utensils were scarce, bread and particularly corn bread was often baked by putting the dough on a smooth board, about 2' long and 8" wide. This was placed on the hearth in a slanting position before the fire. When the upper side was baked, the bread was turned over for baking on the other side. When lard could be obtained, this corn bread was shortened and was then called "Jonny Cake." As soon as the family could, they acquired a cast iron "bake kettle," in some places called "Dutch oven," with legs and a close fitting cover. Standing on the hearth with coals over and under it, bread and biscuit were nicely baked. Bread for large families was usually baked in large outdoor ovens built of brick or fire-proof stones. Fowl and meat were roasted before the fire, suspended by strings attached to the top of the fireplace with pans placed underneath to catch the drippings.

There were a lot of inconveniences in cooking by these open fireplaces; women's hair was singed, their hands blistered, and their dresses scorched. But as they were able to obtain cranes and more convenient cooking utensils, these inconveniences were overcome to a large extent.

Food Stuffs

Among the many hardships of Pioneer life, not the least was the difficulty in procuring bread. It took at least two years before the settler's land became productive and supplied him with food stuff, and, in the meantime, he had to obtain his supplies from other sources. This difficulty was made the greater because of the remoteness from older settlements where his supplies were obtained.

An example might be, when a settler on arrival at his new location might have only $10.00, which he paid for a barrel of flour. Upon this, together with fish and wild game, he chiefly relied for food until he could raise vegetables, which, in turn, were his principal means of support during the first year. Whole families, for many days, did not have a taste of bread but lived wholly on game and other products of the forest.

Meal had to be prepared at home from hulled corn, sometimes for several years, before mills were established close enough for the pioneer to haul his corn to. The preparation of cornmeal was by means of a crude mortar and pestle. For this purpose one end of a large log was scooped out, making a cavity holding half a bushel of corn. A spring pole was fixed over the rafters or to something else of proper height. On the end of the pole a wooden pestle was suspended by a rope. Sometimes the pestle was operated wholly by hand, and the capacity of this arrangement was very small. These were called "corn crackers," "hominy blocks," or "hominy mills." At best they merely cracked the corn into a greater or a less degree of fineness which could be used in the home cooking.

Household Manufacturers

Nearly all the clothing of the early settlers was made from cloth of home manufacture. Long after the country had passed from the pioneer state, the farmer's house continued to be a linen and woolen factory. Where more spinning was to be done than the wife could do in addition to her ordinary housework, or where the daughters were too young to help, spinsters were employed to come into families to spin flax in the winter season, and wool in the summer. The price usually paid these itinerant spinsters was a shilling a day (corresponding to $12\frac{1}{2}\phi$ of present currency), and the day's work ended at early bedtime. Notwithstanding low wages and long hours, many of these spinsters had money to show at the end of the year.

The art of spinning is almost lost at the present time, as there are very few people alive that know anything about it. The wheel used for spinning flax was called the "Little Wheel," to distinguish it from the "Big Wheel" used for spinning wool. When spinning flax, the operator was seated and operated from a seated position. When spinning wool, however, it was necessary to stand and every few moments give the wheel a spin by hand, stepping back and forth to accomplish this. These motions developed into a rhythm when understood produced a considerable quantity of woollen yarn. The operation of these wheels or "stringed instruments" furnished the principal music of the family. Their operation by the women of that time produced all of the wool and flax yarn necessary for clothing, linen, etc. They were indispensable household articles, and were to be found in almost every family. The loom was not less necessary than the wheel.

Woollen cloth was made in the family. There being at first no carding machines, wool was carded and made into short rolls with hand cards. These rolls were spun on the "big wheel," which is now a museum piece. It was turned with one hand, and with such velocity as to give it sufficient speed to enable the nimble mother, by her backward step, to draw out and twist a thread of nearly the length of the room. The same loom was used for both woollen and linen cloth. A combination cloth, sometimes called "Linsey" or "Woolsey-Linsey," was made of a linen warp and woollen filling.

Woollen for men's outer garments was generally sent to the fuller and cloth dresser to be finished, if they were within a convenient distance. Woollen flannel was also made and worn by the mothers and daughters. Flannel for women's wear, after dyestuffs were to be had, were dyed to such colors as the wearer fancied. To improve their appearance, these flannels were sent to a cloth dressing shop for a slight dressing, which was finished by a powerful pressing between large sheets of smooth pasteboard, to give them a glossy appearance. The woollen cloth made on these hand looms was a very heavy and stiff textile. It is no wonder that clothes made from this wool lasted a life-time, as it was almost indestructible because of its weight and stiffness.

There were itinerant "tailoresses," who came into families to make up boys' and men's winter clothing. The cutting was usually done by the village tailor, if available. The "bad fits" which were not uncommon, were generally charged to the cutter. Hence, the custom of tailors, when advertising, "cutting done on short notice, and warranted to fit," to add the very prudent proviso, "if properly made up." These seamstresses charged for their work two shillings a day (25¢). Some thought this a little exorbitant, as the usual price of help at housework was but six shillings (75¢) a week, Sundays included.

Boots and shoes were made in the house by travelling shoe makers, usually from the hides of their slaughtered cattle tanned on shares. The travelling shoe maker made a yearly visit with his "kit." The visit sometimes lasted two or three weeks, depending on the number of feet to be shod. The boys left off their shoes in the spring to run barefoot all summer, but were glad enough to have new shoes made for winter in order to protect their feet from frost and snow. It was not unusual for the larger boys and girls to go barefoot the greater part of the year when leather was scarce and dear. Men's boots and shoes were usually made of coarse leather, called "cowhide." Boots and shoes for both feet were made on one last; in those days rights and lefts were unknown.

Stores and Trade

One great inconvenience of pioneer life was the lack of many things essential to family comfort which the farm could not supply. Therefore, the merchant was one of the most welcome immigrants to a new country. But the presence of a merchant did not necessarily alter the situation, because people were generally poor and had expended all of their money in their removal. What little they had left was needed to buy bread stuff and other necessities. The first farmers were sometimes able to raise a small surplus, and obtain some money from newcomers, but the majority were not so fortunate.

Merchandise was high, being transported in wagons at great cost. But the high prices of the merchant's goods was only one-half of the farmer's misfortune. While he had to pay a double price for nearly every article of store goods, he was obliged to sell his farm products at about half their cost in labor.

Goods were sold by pounds, shilling and pence. Merchants generally marked their goods in this currency, and so charged them to their customers, but the aggregate cost of the number of yards or pounds of the article sold was "carried out" in dollars and cents.

After the Revolutionary War and at the time of the decimal currency in New York, the value of the pound or twenty shillings, was \$2.50, making the shilling worth $12\frac{1}{2}\phi$. This corresponds to the "bit" used currently at the present time in slang phraseology.

My own father, mother and grandmother as late as 1890 computed prices by the shilling with a value of $12\frac{1}{2}\phi$, which is the value used in this further discussion.

Prices of some articles as sold from 1811 to 1818 are here given in shillings and pence:

Calico - 3s, 4D a yard	Pins - 2s, 6D a paper
Loaf sugar - 3s a lb.	Powder - 8s a lb.
Tea - 14s a lb.	Shot - 2s a lb.
Unbleached cotton - 2s, 7D a yd.

Farmers found it no easy matter to pay these prices:

Iron - 1s, 3D a lb.	Nails - 1s, 7D to 2s, 6D a lb.
Paper - 3s a quire	Nutmegs - 1s each
Stockings - 16s, 6D a pr.	Broadcloth - 80s ($10.00) a yard

Considering the low prices of farm produce, it is hard to see how the settlers could buy the merchant's goods or how the merchants could sell enough to keep their stores open. Corn sold at $12\frac{1}{2}\phi$ a bushel, delivered wheat for $37\frac{1}{2}\phi$. Maple sugar brought 4 or 5ϕ a lb., butter 6 to 8ϕ , oats 10 to 12ϕ a bushel, and other grain in proportion. Dressed pork sold for 2 to $2\frac{1}{2}\phi$ a lb.

Merchants sometimes accepted cattle in payment for debts; they were cheap, a good pair of working oxen being worth about $50; three year old steers, $15 a head; two year olds, $10.

Maple sugar was a staple article of trade, brown sugar from the south being almost unknown in the early country stores. Almost the only sugar brought from New York was white refined sugar, put up in hard, solid, tall loaves of a conical form, and called "Loaf" or "Lump" sugar, and was wrapped in strong, coarse paper. It was sold chiefly for sweetening medicines and liquors of tavern keepers, who bought it in large quantities.

Reflections on Pioneer Life

This history of pioneer life presents only the dark side of the picture. But the toils and privations of the early settlers were accompanied by many pleasures. Each new acre added to their clearing brought with it fresh enjoyment and cheered them on in the pursuit of their ultimate object, an unincumbered and a happy home. They were happy also in their fraternal feelings; as one expressed it, "the feeling of brotherhood"; they were very friendly to one another, quite as much so as relatives are at present and this was necessary because they were interdependent on one another for protection and help. The following is an extract from a letter published in a county paper, and is of considerable interest:

"The country around us was an entire wilderness, with here and there a small cabin, containing a small family. We were nearly all new beginners; and although we had to work almost day and night, we were not discouraged. There were many and serious trials in the beginning, with those who settled amid the heavy timber, having nothing to depend on for a living, but their own industry, such was our situation. However, we were blessed with health and strength, and were able to accomplish all that was necessary to be done. Our husbands cleared the ground, and assisted each other in rolling the logs. We often went with them on these occasions, to assist in the way of cooking for the hands.

"We had first rate times, just such as hard laboring men and women can appreciate. We were not what would now be called fashionable cooks; we had no pound cakes, preserves or jellies, but the substantials, prepared in good, old fashioned style. This was one reason why we were blessed with health; we had none of your dainties, knick a knacks, and fixings that are worse than nothing. There are many diseases that we never heard of thirty or forty years ago, such as dyspepsia, neuralgia, and many others too tedious to mention. It was not fashionable then to be weakly. We could take our spinning wheels and walk two miles to a spinning frolic, do our day's work, and after a first rate supper, join in some innocent amusement for the evening. We did not take particular pains to keep our hands white; we knew they were made to use to our advantage; therefore we never thought of having hands just to look at. Each settler had to go and assist his neighbor ten or fifteen days in order to get help in return in log-rolling time; this was the only way to get assistance.

"I have thought proper to mention these things that people now may know what the first settlers had to undergo. We, however, did not complain half so much as people do now. Our diet was plain; our clothing we manufactured ourselves; we lived independent, and we were all on an equality. I look back on those bygone days with great interest. How the scene has changed! Children of those same pioneers know nothing of hardship; they are spoiled by indulgence, and are generally planning ways and means to live without work."

Such is the picture of the interesting life led by our pioneers when the country was young and when the young people in that country were courageous and independent. Out of this pioneering has grown the much more complex civilization under which we now live. Our present mode of living, however, is not in any respect superior in courage, resourcefulness, neighborliness and self-reliance to that led by our early forefathers.

The war is affecting the library as it has other institutions and habits of life. We have sent four of our young men to the army and another is to go shortly. We have had to close in our ranks in order to give the best possible service to our readers. As a result, Miss Ernestine Haile, for the past two years the very gracious and helpful assistant in the Local History and Genealogy Department has been borrowed by the Reference Department. This means that the department is going to be closed part of the time; namely, every Wednesday until 6 P.M., every evening except Wednesday, and every Sunday.

Recognizing the responsibility and integrity of the members of the Niagara Frontier Genealogical Society, special permission has been granted by Mr. Park, the Acting Librarian of the Grosvenor Library, to the members of the Society, to use the books in the department when it is otherwise closed to readers. We ask the cooperation of the membership in three respects: First, that they will use the main entrance to the library and register in a book which will be kept at the Distribution Desk for this special purpose; second, that they will show their membership cards in the society as identification to whoever is in charge at the Distribution Desk, when they register; and third, that they will leave on the tables in the department, all books they have used in their search.
